

In paradysum deducant te Angeli: suscipiant

aeternam habeas requiem, aving earned honor and renown for your deeds and chivalric demeanor, you,

U
T
Y

AND HONOR

must be rewarded. Hear now, as the hall rings with the judgment and the words of Vik and Inga, Whead Sable Lion and Lioness, King and Queen of An Tir.

are deemed by Us most worthy of Our praise. Thus in Our wisdom, We are moved to elevate you with an Award of Arms and bid you to seek Our heralds for unique and exclusive arms.

In witness, We set here Our Hand and Seal, this Day of Societatis

Anno

#6 (Antiphony)

This charter is done in the style of a Gothic polyphonic antiphony; a musical score and hymnal. The approximate date represented is 1450. The musical text is from a standard Latin mass; specifically, the Valedicto, and the Latin reads 'Into paradise may the angel lead thee, receive thee; May thou have eternal rest.' Best colors for this charter are red, blue, white, black and gold, with white diapering on the initials and color bars; please don't color in the musical score lines. © Seal goes in the lower left-hand area, along with the signatures.

by Wyn the Waywarde